

A Visit to The Watermill Theatre, Newbury

Thursday 24th April 2025 from 12:30 pm

Be drawn into the extraordinary world of Édith Piaf, the French chanteuse who captivated the world with her unquestionable talent. Pam Gems' play, starring Audrey Brisson who returns to the Watermill after her critically acclaimed performance in Amélie, charts The Little Sparrow's dramatic rise from the squalor of the streets of Paris to the glamour of international stardom.

Piaf intertwines the great loves, losses and questionable decisions of this complex and fragile star with her raw, spellbinding songs, performed live by an ensemble cast of actor-musicians.

Still revered as an icon, decades after her untimely death, be enchanted by this fascinating talent who lived a life of no regrets.

This will be a matinee performance preceded by a 2-course set lunch (menu choices nearer the time) with tea/coffee included.

You should aim to arrive at the Watermill for lunch at 12:30 pm.
